Ice on the Kennebec. To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: In last evening's account of the brief interview with me on the current ice prospects I am made to convey the impression that ice is now being housed at the Kennebec river in Maine. This is an error, unintentional, of course, on the part of my interviewer. To his inquiry on the subject I stated, from my recollection of recent advices, that ice had formed in the river nearly two weeks in advance of the corresponding formation last year; that it is gradually increasing in thickness and is, apparently, of good quality, and that satisfactory indications are now afforded of an ample harvest-regard being had, of course, to the vicissitudes of a season that has proved to be, already, phenomenally capricious.

A Press Tribute to Walker Blaine. WASHINGTON, D.C., January 15.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAB: The death of Walker Blaine will be regretted by no one outside of his family more keenly than by those members of the press whose business brought them in frequent contact with him. The undersigned was one of these, and he takes pride in saying that in all his professional intercourse with public officials he has never met with any one who showed more consideration to members of the press and who was more courteous and satisfactory in his treatment of the business in hand than Mr. Walker

Mander; Sir Knight H. N. Tolson, noble commander; Sir Knight George F. Pyles, worthy prelate; Sir Knight James H. Donev, keeper of records; Sir Knight Daniel C. Smithson, financial keeper of records; Sir Knight Albert L. Cator, worthy herald; Lady Susanna King, warder inner gate; Sir Knight Geo. W. Berry, warder outer gate; Sir Knight than by those members of the press whose busiment of the business in hand than Mr. Walker Blaine. THE NATIONAL CONSERVATORY. EXTENSION OF CITY STREETS. Well-Known Washingtonians Join Mrs. Thurber in the Enterprise.

Upon an invitation of the Hon. Gardiner G. Hubbard to meet Mrs. Thurber at his house of America upon a permanent basis a number of well-known men met Tuesday evening. Major Powell, director of the geological survey, being called to the chair and Mr. Anthony Pollok acting as secretary. Mr. Hubbard stated the object of the meeting, and then invited Mrs. Thurber to make a statement with regard to the foundation, present condition and prospects of the institution.

After an interesting discussion, in which nearly all those present participated, a pre-amble and resolutions offered by Prof. Lang-ley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, were unanimously adopted. The preamble set forth that "the National conservatory of music is a comporation organized under the general law of the state of New York, which is and has been in successful operation for a sufficient number of years to test thoroughly its usefulness, having given musical education to a great many persons from all parts of the United States and secured to them the means of honorable subsistence, if not of fame and fortune;" of a national maintenance fund," and that "it is the sense of this meeting that, in view of the great advantages which will accrue to our people by providing the proper means for developing musical culture among the gifted every en-couragement and aid should be extended to the proposed extension and permanent establishment of said conservatory." It was therefore resolved:

"1. That a permanent national committee be constituted whose duties shall be to provide ways and means for raising throughout the United States funds for carrying out the object and purpose of the resolutions adopted January 3, 1890, by the board of trustees as afore-Pollock and John W. Powell, any vacancies by resignation or death to be filled by the remaining trustees. "3. That the committee shall enter upon the discharge of its duties as soon as two of its members shall have been elected trustees and one of them a member of the executive committee of said institution.

"4. That when in the opinion of the committee a favorable apportunity shall present itself for obtaining recognition at the hands of Congress and the government of the usefulness and national importance of the institution it (the said committee) may take proper measures to secure congressional aid and action and to obtain appropriations or subsidies for scholar-ships or for the incorporation of the conservatory into any of the departments of the government." After the adoption of the resolution Maj.

Powell and Mr. Hubbard were designated as the members of the national committee which are to go on the board of trustees of the National conservatory of music of America.

The Jury Failed to Agree. Yesterday afternoon in the Criminal Court, Chief Justice Bingham, the jury in the case of Wm. Boswell, colored, charged with house breaking, was discharged, being unable to agree upon a verdict. He was indicted for breaking into the house and store of Milo Sweeny December 11 and taking three watches and a pistol. James Lewis, indicted with him, plead guilty some days ago and was the principal witness against Boswell, testifying that he (witness) first entered the house, Boswell following him and taking two watches. Boswell denied this statement, claiming that he was at church at the time and all that he knew of the robbery was when Lewis told him next day what a bully time he had had as he had got a watch. Knights of Honor Installation.

The Pending Bills Approved by a Committee of the Board of Trade.

The board of trade ask for a hearing before the District committees of Congress in order for the purpose of conferring as to the best means to present their views relative to the bills (Senof placing the National conservatory of music ate 1104, H.H. 3334) now before both houses, providing for the extension of the streets and avenues of the city. The committee on streets and avenues of the board, of which Col. Geo. Truesdell is chairman, has made a report on these bills, in which it is stated that the bills are identical, and "direct the Commissioners of the District to establish a permanent system of highways, as nearly in conformity with the street plan of the city, as they should deem advisable and practicable in, through and upon any existing suburban subdivision in said District, and as far as they shall deem advisable through intervening tracts of land."

These bills, the report states, are proper and ecessary supplements to the act to regulate sub divisions in the county of Washington, approved August 27, 1888. That act was the irst practical and effective measure looking to the extension of the city streets by putting an end to the long continued and highly injurious privilege accorded to every land holder of subdividing his holding to suit his own selfish nothat "it is proposed to extend the sphere of usefulness of the conservatory and to place it upon a permanent basis by the establishment it is doubtful whether any single local statute has been productive of an equal amount of good in the District. It was the result of long and earnest effort by many citizens to reclaim the beauti ful suburbs of Washington from the hands of selfish speculators and was the first recognition by Congress of the necessity of making new streets conform to the city streets regardless of the plans of existing intervening sub-divisions. It was a public recognition by Congress of the necessity of such a measure as the one now under consideration and a solemn pledge that sooner or later it should be enacted into a law. It ought to have been done years ago, and every day's delay adds largely to the cost. It is second to none in importance for the future of Washington." "These bilis," the report concludes, "while not free from objection combine the best portions of various similar bills which have been introduced in one or both Houses of Congress from time to time, having the same object in view, and appears to provide carefully and well for all of the necessities of the case with some minor exceptions to which the District Commissioners have called the attention of Congress. The committee believe their passage to be of the utmost importance to the present and future interests of Washington."

The Canal and the B. and O. Railroad. A bill was filed in the equity court for Washington county at Hagerstown yesterday by Mr. S. Teackle Wallis of Baltimore, solicitor for S. Teackle Wallis of Baltimore, solicitor for the same body. The table above gives George S. They Called for a Prayer. The first bill passed by the legislature of South Dakota reached the governor yesterday afternoon. The bill authorizes the governor to appoint a commission of three to make a final adjustment of the account between North and South Dakota and to determine the amount of flowing indebtedness outstanding against the territory, and what part thereof shall be apportioned to the states of South and North Dakota. Both houses adjourned for five minutes to celebrate the event. After loud cheering prayer was called for and the two houses n joint assembly listened to a fervent praver by the chaplain that this first act of the com-monwealth be blessed by the Omnipotent and that all other acts may be worthy of the same.

Can't Be "Cold Shouldered" In. The Toronto Globe, in an editorial on Canada's commercial relations with the United States. says: "If the Americans will agree to continental free trade the Canadians will heartily consent to it. But if they refuse to do so, think-ing that annexation will result, they will make a huge blunder. If Canada could be cold shouldered into the Union the latter would find her a very undesirable acquisition.

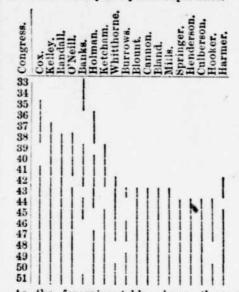

Against Extending the Judge's Term. An earnest fight is being made in the Maryland legislature against the proposition to extend Judge Stone's term. Southern Maryland next month he will be seventy years of age and of service on Capitol Hill: his term will expire by constitutional limit unless it is extended by the legislature. It will come to a vote next week.

CONGRESSIONAL LONGEVITY. Samuel J. Randall Is Now the Father of the House

TABULAR SHOWING OF THE SERVICE OF VETERANS -MORRILL HAS SERVED LONGEST IN CONGRESS AND SHERMAN IN THE SENATE-MEN WHO EN-TERED CONGRESS LONG BEFORE THE WAR.

Now that Judge Kelley has passed away Samuel J. Randall becomes father of the House by reason of having had a longer continuous service than any other member of the House. He has also served a greater number of years than any other member, which was not the fact in Judge Kelley's case, except during the few months that have classed since the death of the The police of Richmond and Manchester, months that have elapsed since the death of the late Hon. S.S.Cox. Mr. Randall, although a dozen years younger than Judge Kelley, is regarded as in a precarious state of health. In the event orders. of his passing away the honor of being the father of the House would descend to yet another Philadelphian, Charles O'Neill, who is a member of twenty-five years' experience.

As the foregoing table shows, there are several members who have served continuously as long as Mr. O'Neill, but he will rank them by reason of his experience prior to 1870, when an unruly democrat broke the continuity of his service. James H. Blount of Georgia, R. P. Bland of Missouri, Joseph Q. Cannon of Illinois, and Roger Q. Mills of Texas have each served in nine successive Congresses and will be rivals for the distinction of father of the House after O'Neill retires. It will seem out of place to think of Charlie O'Neill as father of the House, when the white-headed Nathaniel P. Banks, who entered Congress ten years befor him, or William S. Holman, who began as long ago as the Thirty-sixth Congress, sit in in a manner easy of reference, and also includes the service of the lately deceased patriarchs of the lower House, Cox and Kelley.

There are still in Congress survivors of every Congress since and including the Thirty-first, which was elected in the great Cass-Taylor campaign in 1848, and the members of which took their seats on the 3d of December, 1849, and remained in session 302 days-a term unparalleled by any Congress until the Fiftieth. The sole survivor of this Congress of forty years ago still in service 18 Senator Isham G. Harris of Tennessee. CONTINUOUS SERVICE IN THE SENATE. The following is the order of precedence of the twelve senior Senators according to their continuous service in the Senate:

Entered Geo. F. Edmunds...April 5, 1866
 Justin S. Morrill....March 4, 1867 24 23 3. Matt W. Ransom.....April 24, 1872 18 17 17 17 15 15 13 4. Wm. B. Allision March 4, 1873 John P. Jones March 4, 1873 6. John J. Ingalls..... March 4, 1873 7. Henry L. Dawes.... March 4, 1875 8, F. M. Cockrell. March 4, 1875 9. Isham G. Harris. March 5, 1877 James B. Beck......March 5, 1877
 Daniel W. Voorhees. Oct. 16, 1877 It is this rank in the point of continuous service that constitutes senatorial seniority. Although Morrill is an older man than Edmunds and has served much longer in Congress he did not reach the Senate until a year after Edmunds. It is an interesting fact that both these Vermont veterans succeeded men of long experience. Edmunds first entered the Senate even days after the death of Solomon Foote. who was a Representative four years and a Senator fifteen, dying in harness. Morrill succeeded Jacob Collamer, who was long Representative, cabinet officer and Senator. But the real father of the Senate is John Sherman, who entered the Senate simultaneously with Judge Kelley's advent in the House, but who allowed his long service to be broken by going into the cabinet of President Hayes. The order of the Senators according to date of first entry into the Senate is as fol-

ACID IN THE BLOOD

Accumulating in the joints is believed to be the cause of rheumatism, from which so many suffer at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had wonderful success in curing this complaint. It neutralizes the acidity of the blood and restores the vital fluid to healthy condition. If you suffer from rheumatism try Hood's Sarsaparilla.
